Do Not Despise One Of These Little Ones (Mt 18:10)

What's Next?

The liberal majority in New York has, with the governor's signature, passed into law the most egregious pro-abortion bill, allowing abortion until the onset of dilation or labor.

Following in their footsteps, the Virginia legislature considered a similar bill, thankfully unsuccessfully, which, by its promoters, would have allowed abortions resulting in a live birth to be followed by infanticide.

Vermont, Rhode Island, Ohio, and New Mexico are considering similar legislation.

The liberal arm has placed abortion support and infanticide promotion at the top of its political agenda.

Good News

This is our first Good News column. Our intention is to give our readers access to events and issues we do not have the space to cover but which remain important.

Why Should I be Pro-life

See the movie "Unplanned" and you will know why.

An Exercise

For some meditation, read Proverbs 18. It speaks to our social, political, and moral condition today as it must have done about the days when it was written.

It points an ugly finger at some things and shines a bright and glorious light on others.

It gives us good reason to see motivation and great cause for joy for our pro-life movement.

Why Must We

REINSTATE GOD

To Schools, Homes, & Work

When we believe "I did it my way" is a goal, we deny there is a better way.

What's Next? Follow-up

Two states, Ohio and New Mexico, have spoken. In both states, the Senates have voted to reject the pro-abortion bills.

With republican and democrat support, the bills to support/promote abortion until birth and infanticide were DEFEATED.

"Guttmacher" says

"The change in Supreme Court justices is taking place against a backdrop in which 29 states already have enough abortion restrictions in effect to be considered either hostile or extremely hostile to abortion rights; four states in the 'extremely hostile' category also have so-called 'trigger' laws on the books that would immediately ban abortion if Roe were overturned (see map). This year, many state legislators continued their efforts to restrict reproductive rights or access to care. In the first six months of 2018, 11 states enacted 22 new abortion restrictions and four states moved to impose new restrictions on providers that can receive public funds for family planning programs."

No wonder the Guttmacher Institute reports anxiety over the change in abortion support.

Now, Infanticide

It follows that if abortion is a legal right, then so is infanticide. One follows the other because they are based on the same thinking.

And that is the trap into which the liberals find themselves; if they support one they must defend the other. And, as with gender selection abortion, some are embracing infanticide enthusiastically.

Multiple bills have been brought forward in state legislatures to loosen rules or amend existing laws in support of infanticide, either by neglect of the newborn or outright killing the newborn, for any reason.

The leftward rush in progressive thinking is clear. One has only to listen to the proposals of the growing community of presidential candidates.

The Senate and the Presidency are the stop gaps for any such legislation; retaining them needs to be at the top of our efforts.

Newborn Care

Suppose we have a newborn, just delivered. What care should be provided to that baby?

For some the answer is "that depends".

House Democrats have stopped, over 25 times, any discussion of the "Born Alive Abortion Survivors Protection Act". That bill would require the same medical care and attention be given to all babies, regardless their birth circumstances. The opposition will not even allow the bill to be brought to the floor for debate.

Back to "that depends". Some legislators insist that a newborn, resulting from a failed abortion, need not be cared for but may be left to die unattended.

Infanticide is a crime; it's murder.

If it's ok to kill in the womb, it's ok to kill in the crib, and also in the rocking chair.

Bumper Sticker Gem

Everybody who favors abortion has already been born.
